DARK HORSE.

A Explanation of the Origin of the Term.

The origin of the term "dark horse" is explained in a matter of fact way by the Cincinnati Enquirer. Once in Tennessee there lived an old chap named Sam Flynn, who traded in horses, and generally contrived to own a speedy nag or two, which he used for racing purposes whenever he could pick up a "soft match" during his travels. The best of his flyers was a coal-black stallion named Dusky Pete, who was almost a thoroughbred, and able to go in the best of company. Flynn was accustomed to saddle Pete when approaching a town and ride him into it to give the impression that the animal was merely a "likely hoss" and not a flyer. One day he came into a town where a race-meeting was being held, and he entered Pete among the contestants. The people of the town, not knowing anything of his antecedents, and not being over impressed by his appearance, backed two or three of the local favorites heavily against him. Flynn moved quietly among the crowd, and took all the bets offered against his nag. Just as the "flyers" were being saddled for the race, old Judge McNamee, who was the turf oracle for that part of the State, arrived on the course and was made one of the judges. As he took his place on the stand he was told how the betting ran, and of the folly of the owner of the strange entry in backing his "plug" so heavily. Running his eye over the rock, the Judge instantly recognized Pete, and said: "Gentlemen, there's a dark horse in this race that will make some of you smell h— before supper." The Judge was right. Pete, the "dark horse," lay back until the three-quarter pole was reached, when he went to the front with a rush and won the purse and Flynn's bets with the greatest ease.

Paying in Kisses.

From the Chicago Times.

Mr. Eddy gave Miss Hintzman a fine set of jewelry, at New Berne, N.C., and she wore it for seven weeks. Then he brought a suit to recover it, on the ground that he had simply lent it to her. She testified that, by the terms of a mutual agreement, she was to pay for the jewelry by kissing Mr. Eddy every morning for one hundred days. He called and got his kisses, on his way to work every morning for a month. Then he grew bold and wanted to take a hug as well as a kiss. There was no provision in the bargain for hugging, and she repulsed him, even restricting his kisses to a mere touch of his lips to her cheeks. He thought he was being cheated, and hence his efforts to recover.

The Great Desideratum found at last. Castor oil made pleasant. Parry's palatable CASTOR OIL is equal in medicinal activity to the ordinary unprepared Castor Oil, but has a pleasant in place of a nauseous taste. It is easily taken and retained by the stomach, even of delicate persons. Children take it readily and make no fuss about it. Osburn & Shoemaker, Agents for Washoe County. April 17.

EDUCATION AS A FINE ART.

Bishop Whitaker's school has great claims upon all who have daughters to educate. The responsibility of a parent does not end when children are fed, clothed and housed. The mind is of far more importance than the body, and in providing for its necessities great care should be exercised. We have no hesitation in saying that the Bishop's school is, in every respect, safe and healthy, both for the minds and bodies of young ladies. It must be remembered that effort of memory is not knowledge, and that the system of education which makes a parrot of a pupil, while it may be very showy, is not the best, by any means. The mind should be strengthened as well as trained. It should be stimulated as well as guided. Education does not consist in a vast store of facts committed to memory. That person is truly educated who can use all his or her natural powers to the fullest capacity. The system of education adopted in this and all other first-class institutions does not develop one faculty at the expense of the rest. The plain and useful branches become the foundation for higher studies and lighter accomplishments. Neither is the mind developed at the expense of the animal health. The doctrine that the spirit acted independently of the body has been exploded, often leading the human race through oceans of ignorance and seas of blood. A healthy mind can only be formed in a sound body, and the one must not be crushed to expand the other. But a beautiful body and vigorous mind lose half their charms if the character is imperfect. The associations of children, and girls especially, must be carefully looked after. The Bishop is especially vigilant in this matter. No one who does not bear the highest character could find a place on his staff. He is a fine judge of human nature, and his scholars get the benefit of his long experience as an educator. The young ladies' manners are as carefully attended to as any part of their education. The citizens of Reno take the warmest interest in this matter, and we hope that during vacation all will make an effort to bring scholars for the next term.

HANCOCK AND ENGLISH.

General Winfield Scott Hancock was born Feb. 14, 1824, in Montgomery county, Pennsylvania. He is a graduate of West Point, having entered at the age of sixteen, and has spent his life in the army. He was the Executive military officer who hung Mrs. Surratt, which the Democrats have always called a bloody murder. William H. English, of Indiana, was in Congress before the war, and was the originator of a great many compromise measures. He disappeared from public life twenty years ago. He was a rank copperhead throughout the war.

The Democrats did at least one good thing at Cincinnati. They snubbed Tammany thoroughly. John Kelly was fairly whipped into submission.

There was a perfect stampede to get on the winning side at Cincinnati. That's where the officers and that is where the principles of that party are found.

George D. Winters informs a Gazette correspondent at Washoe City that the name of that promising colt of Theodore Winters is not "306," but "305."

The cry of fraud is heard no more in the land. Sammy was not President de jure, so much as he thought he was.

The Post thinks the nomination of Hancock is a characteristic Democratic blunder.

Where! oh! where is the fraud and reform issue?

There are now no less than nine stage lines plying between Beddoe and the outside world, and two more are to be put on within a week or two—one across the Sierra to Sonora, and the other via Sweetwater to Carson.

But if the Democrats carry all these States and lose New York they are gone. Her vote was Democratic from 1828 to 1836. In 1840 and again in '48 the Whigs carried it. In '52 it was Democratic. In '56 the Republicans had 80,000 majority; in 1860, 60,000; in '64, 6,700. In 1868 it was Democratic, mainly through the Tweed ring frauds. In '72 the Republicans had 53,000 majority. In '76 Tilden beat Hayes 32,000. In '78 the Republican majority was over 34,000, and in '79 it elected Cornell and a majority of the Legislature. Kelly, Tilden and Seymour are all supposed to be for Hancock heartily, and the fight in the Empire State will be something desperate.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

A dispatch from San Francisco says: On reception of the news of the nomination of Hancock and English, the Democrats fired one hundred guns. The leading men of the party assembled at headquarters, and much gratification was expressed at the action of the convention. The opinion is expressed that the nominees, better than any others, harmonize the conflicting interests, especially in New York, which is now claimed for the Democracy.

President Hayes should, if possible, be induced to attend the State Fair. His presence would greatly contribute to its success. Governor Kinkead and the Trustees of the Agricultural Society should extend the President an invitation without loss of time, before he can make appointments that would prevent his acceptance. It is announced that he will come to the coast in time to attend the California State Fair. As the Fair here is a week earlier, he could easily arrange to spend a day in Reno on his way through, and would doubtless be pleased to do so, should he be invited in good time.

S. M. Waite has distinguished himself as a colossal rascal. He is the greatest bank thief found out this year. As President of the First National Bank of Brattleboro, Vermont, he forged its paper to the amount of a quarter of a million of dollars, and made away with almost all of its capital. Waite has disappeared, but is being looked up.

The Democrats were dissatisfied because Tilden did not go to Washington and insist upon being inaugurated. Hancock is General in charge of the district of Pennsylvania, which includes Washington. Do they think he is a "strong" man and will inaugurate himself if there is a doubtful vote.

Three of Nevada's delegates to Cincinnati voted for Field on the first ballot. The delegation were instructed to vote for Tilden so long as his name was before the Convention. Now what will those three disobedient delegates catch when they get home!

The convention at Cincinnati surrendered New York and Connecticut to their fate, and concentrated on Pennsylvania and Indiana. It looks as if they thought their case a very bad one.

Nevada city is to be disappointed of its hanging on the 25th, for the Herald says that Ah Lock has raised the money to carry his case on appeal to the Supreme Court, and will get a new trial.

When it became evident in the Convention yesterday that Hancock would be nominated, the Nevada delegation joined the rush to get on the winning side.

Remarkable Presence of Mind.

A man at Athens, Ga., seeing a child fall from a third-story window, grabbed a barrel of water under the spot, and the little one fell into it harmlessly.

Mrs. Reardon, of Vacaville, gave birth on the 12th instant to a boy and two girls, and at this date they are all alive and doing well. The boy weighed 6½ pounds, and the girls 5 pounds each.

Fourth of July Arrangement.

The Committee of Arrangements have resolved to invite all ladies and children to the procession, and recommend for handsome and fashionable dress goods, for calicoes, lawns, piques and other white goods, for Lisle thread silk gloves and mitts, white and fancy hose, silk and linen bordered handkerchiefs, dusters and sacks, Isaac Barnett's immense assortment, he having reduced for this occasion his entire stock 25 per cent.

Sale has commenced. Hurry and get your goods.

BORN.

BENDER—In Reno, June 24, 1880, to the wife of C. T. Beuder, a daughter.

JOTTINGS.

—A lost scarf ring is advertised.
—See 50-cent column for a chance to work on a dairy.

—Harvesting on the Court House farm will commence on Monday.

—There will be a picnic at Bowers' Mansion on Saturday, July 31. Fare one dollar.

—Rice, the milkman, is wearing a suit of clothes from the IXL that cost him a dollar, and it is a good suit too.

—A. J. Anderson, proprietor of the Webber Lake hotel, writes to the GAZETTE that the lake is still covered with ice and that the snow is two feet deep on the meadow land. His hotel was opened on the 18th.

—Farmers between here and Steamboat complain that engineers do not ring the bell or blow the whistle at Huffaker's Station. Farmers hauling hay cannot get down to examine the track and it makes the neglect a source of danger.

—Some malicious rascals sawed the spokes out of Manning & Berry's delivery wagon last night. One of the leashes was also sawed across. The wagon was left in the street in front of the firm's barn on Virginia street.

Independent Chinese.

Says the Silver State: The building of the Bodie railroad from the Mound House, on the Virginia and Truckee road, to Candelaria, is creating quite a demand for Chinese labor, some 300 Celestials being now employed in grading the road. The Chinese section men on the Central Pacific understand the situation, and knowing their labor is in demand, are getting very independent. At Brown's they refused to work and white men are being put in their places. We are informed that they are very saucy at Mill City and other places between here and Wadsworth.

Departures from Lee's Yard.

From San Francisco, freight for Plumas is being constantly delivered to teams at the depot here. This morning Alex Barton, John McNear and W. Collins, each driving a big team, pulled out for Eureka hill, Plumas county. Their teams are heavily loaded with machinery, iron and mining supplies for the Plumas—Eureka mine.

Other departures to-day were A. J. Grazier, with a load of hops and malt for Jamison, and a heavily loaded team for Susanville.

Racing at Carson.

The Appeal says that on Monday, July 5th, there will be two good races at the Carson race track. McClellan, owned by A. C. Ellis, Circo's roan horse and Woodburn's gray horse will trot mile heats best three in five for $100. Maggie C. and Bushy John will then make a race of mile heats best three in five for $200 a side. Admission 50 cents. Some rare old sport is promised.

BISHOP WHITAKER'S SCHOOL.

The End of the Fourth Year, and the First Diploma.

The commencement exercises at the Bishop's School for Girls could hardly have gone more smoothly. They began at quarter past nine on Monday, June 21st, and ended on Wednesday at eleven in the evening. On Monday written examinations were made in arithmetic, Latin, botany, chemistry, criticism and grammar; on Tuesday in geometry, French, German, history, Bible history and spelling. On Wednesday the exercises consisted of oral examinations in geography, algebra, natural philosophy, music, recitations, essays, scenes from Shakespeare, etc. Miss Mollie Grippe graduated, and read the following essay, entitled

NOWADAYS:

It seems to be the law of human nature that when a person reaches a certain age he shall descend upon the good old times that are past. It is almost impossible to give the exact age to which a person generally attains before he commences to make comparisons between the days of the past and those of the present, but we should say that it is about fifty. However, everyone knows that nothing seems to give an old lady or gentleman greater pleasure than frequent references to the past. They often say very solemnly, "Ah! times have been growing worse since we were young." All young people are thus led to think that those who had the pleasure of living at that time are greatly to be envied by their less fortunate descendants. Our grandfathers and our grandmothers would have us believe that the world when they were young would compare favorably with the garden of Eden. Even our mothers think the young people of to-day are sadly deficient in a great many things that were familiar to them. For instance, a mother says to her daughter, who has failed perhaps in her first attempt at sewing, "Why cannot you learn to do this? I am sure it is easy, and I know that when I was younger I could do this and more too." What models of perfection the girls of the good old times must have been, and is it not sad that nowadays everything is going backwards instead of forwards?

A great deal has been said about girls being nothing nowadays but mere butterflies of fashion. That is not a fair representation. One might as well describe the seashore by saying there are mosquitoes, there as to characterize girls as mere butterflies. There are many and great differences between the girls of to-day and those of the good old times so fondly spoken of. But are not very many of these changes for the better? How much the dress of both men and women has improved during the last century, and even during the last few years. Comfort is now studied, which was not done in the good old times. Not a hundred years ago ladies were obliged to wear shoes with the very thinnest of soles, or else lose all claim to being fashionable, whereas nowadays thick soles and square heels are not tabooed. How unbefitting to our busy 19th century life would be the lace trimmed silk garments worn by the gentlemen of the 18th century. Our conveniences for travel are continually being improved. The cars which have in a great measure taken the place of the stage coach, the jolting of which was so unpleasant, are being fitted up every year to be more comfortable. Anyone who has ever crossed the ocean in a sailing ship and then in a steamer will readily acknowledge the superiority of the latter.

In regard to the government of nations, also, there has been a very marked change for the better. History tells us little, before the French Revolution—besides the oppressions of the king,—of how the people were ground down and taxed heavily in order to provide for the lavish expenditures on the part of their rulers. Now all that is different. The government of every nation has become more liberal. France is no longer a monarchy. England, although nominally ruled by a queen, grants its people all the liberty which moderate republicans could ask.

Formerly it was thought to be sufficient education for a girl that she should know how to read, write and cipher, and only those like Elizabeth Barrett Browning, Mme. de Staél and Mary Somerville, who were gifted with remarkable intellects, and who were determined to be educated, could receive any advantages. Nowadays there are many colleges for women, which in most respects compare favorably with those for men. Women in all parts of the world are showing what grand work educated women can do. It is one of the greatest improvements upon the customs of bygone days that women are given a chance to improve the gifts with which they have been endowed. Nor are the means of higher education wanting to us of this new country.

To you, honored sir, the gratitude of Nevada girls is great; for to your disinterested efforts they are indebted for a school in which they are enabled to acquire a sound education, fitting them for useful work in the world. Farewell—may you live to see hundreds of graduates from the School for Girls who will bless you as its founder.

To you, most excellent teachers, who have borne so patiently with the faults of your pupils and who have endeavored in every way to show them the value of a thorough education, farewell.

Farewell to you, fellow-pupils, whose school course is not yet finished. You are looking forward with eagerness to the hour when you, too, shall be able to say, my studies are over—commencement, the commencement of real, stirring life is at hand.

THE SAVINGS BANK.

List of Attachments Filed—No Assignment to Drexler—A Statement to be Submitted To-morrow.

The suspension of the Reno Savings Bank continues the absorbing topic of conversation. It has caused a great deal of distress. Many persons had the result of years of saving on deposit in the bank. The creditors of the bank have covered the assets with attachments. The following is the list of attachments on file in the County Clerk's office up to 1 o'clock to-day:

Jerry Schooling	$1117.91
C. A. Bragg	461.98
Peckham	1419.78
Ida Pratt	7446.00
T. E. Haydon	640.00
M. C. Lake	48000.00
Larcom Estate	6193.33
Samuel Stanaway	968.16
Verdi Planing Co.	1486.00
A. Strasburg & Co.	422.98
Geo. H. Bayley	2000.00
J. Asher	1101.00
Knust & Jones	456.00
A. C. Blakely	371.00

$67,682.09

A report was in circulation on the street to-day that L. P. Drexler of Virginia had a general assignment of the assets of the bank. Mr. Drexler came down from Virginia last evening, and has been in town all day. This afternoon a GAZETTE reporter stood upon him, and asked him what truth there was in the report. He said that he had no assignment from the bank, but that he holds certain securities as a protection for a debt due him by the bank. The nature and amount of those securities he said he did not care to state, as it was a matter of private business. The protection of his private interests was what brought him to Reno. Mr. Drexler had nothing more to say.

Judge Haydon, whom the bank owes $640, had State Treasurer Crockett, Vice-President of the bank, garrisoned in Carson this morning. Mr. Crockett answered that he had no funds or other property of the bank in his possession.

A meeting of the Directors will be held to-morrow morning at 8 o'clock, and a statement prepared and submitted. J. H. Kinkead, the manager, is still confined to his house by illness.

John Leary is considered one of the best pitchers in the country. In 1876 he played with the Tecumsehs of London, Ontario, which club won the international championship that year.

In 1877 he was with the Lynns of Massachusetts and for a part of that season and the two years following played with the Manchesters. Last winter he filled first base for the Chicagoans on their visit to San Francisco. He came to this coast last October with the noted "Hop Bitters" nine and since their return has acted as pitcher for the Bay Citys of San Francisco.

J. Farrell has played with the Actives of Detroit, the Reds of Peoria and recently with the Bay Citys. He is regarded as one of the best short stops in the country.

Fred Lewis played center field and substitute for the Hop Bitters and second base for the Bay Citys, and is an excellent general player.

Clifton Carroll was with the San Francisco Athletics, alternating as catcher and first base. He is a fearless catcher, accurate thrower, and at the bat a terror to the outfield.

These four will play here next Sunday. Two of them will play with the Live Oaks and two will play with the best nine that can be made up to match the Live Oaks. The game will be played in Hatch's field, and will begin at one o'clock.

Four professional base ball players are in town on their way East. Their names are Leary, Farrell, Lewis and Carroll. They recently played in Carson, and the Times gives them the following notice:
